Profile

I'm a final-year student with a growing passion for cybersecurity and cloud computing. Although I don't have direct industry experience, I've been actively building my knowledge through academic projects, online courses, and hands-on practice with cloud platforms and security tools. I'm especially interested in areas like network security, cloud infrastructure, and ethical hacking, and I'm eager to apply what I've learned in real-world settings. I thrive on continuous learning and problem-solving, and I'm currently looking for internships or entry-level opportunities to contribute, grow, and be mentored by industry professionals.
